The Lionesses report that their newly revived contest is a big success, with every last ticket sold.

Third participant for pipeline project

Imperial Oil Limited and Amoco Canada Petroleum Company Ltd. have announced that Koch Oil Co. Ltd. has joined as a participant in the proposed ThickSilver Pipeline project. Koch Oil and Amoco Canada each have a 21 percent interest in the project. Imperial has a 58 percent interest and will be the pipeline operator.

An application for approval of ThickSilver was submitted to the Alberta Energy and Utilities Board on November 14, 1997.

The proposed ThickSilver project includes two parallel pipelines, about 250 kilometres in length, to be built from Cold Lake to Hardisty. A 914 mm (36 inch) diameter line is proposed to transport blended bitumen, from the Cold Lake area to the Hardisty pipeline terminal, and a smaller 324 mm (12 inch) diameter line to transport lighter hydrocarbon-liquid diluent from Hardisty to Cold Lake. The proposed pipelines will have initial capacities of 330,000 barrels a day and 64,000 barrels a day respectively.

The pipeline will accommodate bitumen production from existing facilities operated by Imperial, Amoco and Koch in the Cold Lake area. With additional pumping stations, the pipeline will have the capacity to transport up to 700,000 barrels a day of blended bitumen. This capacity will accommodate future expansions from ThickSilver participants, volumes from other Cold Lake producers and an extension of the pipeline to the Fort McMurray area after the turn of the century.

Assuming timely regulatory approval, pipeline construction would begin in the fall of 1999, with operation commencing in 2000. Total cost of the project is estimated at $250 million.

Former MLA passes away

John Drobot, who served this area as a municipal councillor, reeve and Member of the Legislative Assembly for over 30 years, passed away suddenly on Friday, January 16 at the age of 71.

A lifelong resident of the Stoney Lake and Lake Eliza area, Drobot was first elected to the St. Paul County Council in 1961, and served as a councillor and school board member until 1974, when he became the County reeve, a position he held until the fall of 1982, when he was elected to represent St. Paul in the Provincial Legislature. He spent 11 years in the Legislature before his retirement in June, 1993, and was highly regarded by his fellow MLAs, who said he often entertained them with his wit and wisdom.

Over the years, Drobot was involved with many local groups, including the Stoney Lake Stampede Association, St. Paul Grazing Reserve, Elk Point Chamber of Commerce and Elk Point Historical Society. He also served on the Northern Alberta Development Council, the Seniors Advisory Council and the Alberta Health Facilities Review Committee.

After his retirement, Drobot turned his attention back to his first loves: his family, their Wagon Wheel Ranch in the picturesque Stoney Lake hills, and writing and performing cowboy poetry. The mustachioed and woolly-chapped "Old Jake" became a familiar figure at special events and jamborees with his entertaining tales of life on the ranch. He travelled far afield to attend cowboy poetry gatherings where he enjoyed swapping tall tales with his fellow bards of the range.

His beloved wife, Gladys, a former school teacher who he mentioned in many of his poems, passed away last August after a long illness. He is survived by their two daughters, a son-in-law and two grandchildren.

Garbage bylaw gets fine tuning

Elk Point's new garbage bylaw was reviewed and revised by Town Council before being given second reading at their January 12 meeting. Council also met with a local resident who came to express concern over the proposed changes. The final reading will take place in February.

Mayor Ed Buck noted that the bylaw itself does not state that garbage pickup would be changed from alleys to curbside. That change would only be made by a resolution of Council following the final passage of the bylaw, and may only affect certain areas of town. "Some places in town, it's an advantage to use the alley [for pickup]. We will sit down with the administration and Public Works before the next Council meeting and sketch up a map" showing which homes would have front pickup and which would have alley pickup, both on a year-round basis.

Some residents, such as those on Circle Drive, have had their garbage picked up in front during the winter and in the alley during the summer for the past year.

Neither does the bylaw "say we won't clean the alleys," Buck emphasized. He noted that some alleys are "a problem. We have no place to push the snow." When those alleys are needed to access a residential area, "they do their best to keep the alley open, and this would continue." Town Manager Goyan said that the power poles in alleys are generally located on the property line, and "if people put their garbage cans on the alley side of the property line, we don't have enough room to plow." The cans need to be on the homeowner's property, he noted.

One key point addressed by the new bylaw is that of containers. The mayor recently toured the alleys and was "surprised how many 45 gallon drums are left, that the garbage man has to wrestle." He also said the garbage men have to contend with dog and cat dung put into the containers without first being bagged. Under the new bylaw, all waste would have to be bagged with the exception of yard waste, which could be bagged or put in receptacles, and tree clippings, which could be tied into bundles no more than four feet in length. Clippings would not be accepted if they were more than two inches in diameter.

Bag measurements originally contained in the bylaw were changed to read "a flexible container" not weighing over sixty pounds. Mayor Buck feels that the bags should be enclosed in a standard garbage container, or in a bin enclosed with a lid to prevent animals and birds accessing the garbage. It is noted in the bylaw that unacceptable containers (those which do not conform with the bylaw) will be removed with the garbage by the garbage men. See "The Container Issue," at left.

The new bylaw is largely a matter of "house cleaning," according to Goyan, who combined three present bylaws to develop it.

Councillor resigns

Council also dealt with a variety of other matters at their first meeting of the New Year. One of these was the resignation of Louis Verhagen from Council, due to health problems. His resignation was accepted with regret, and with thanks for his years of service on Council. Verhagen's committee appointments were divided among the rest of Council.

Operating budget passed

Council passed their 1998 Operating Budget, which shows the Town going into a seventh year without increasing taxes for municipal operations. Mayor Buck, who said the budget "shows a slight surplus," said it is "one of the quickest we've had out is some time" and added that this is possible because of more stability in the provincial government. The capital budget is still in the planning process.

An amount budgeted last year for fencing at the East Cemetery was unused and will be returned to reserves.

A word about anger

By Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

After our very nice fall... (we all did get used to that nice weather, now didn't we?) ... Anyway, January 1998 has brought us snow and some cold weather. What a contrast! I detect there is probably a mixture of feelings from people about the weather.

Yes, one could become angry about the weather. Or there could be other things that could happen that cause us to feel angry. My question — "What do you do when you feel angry?" Do you feel like exploding? Do you punch and kick and swear and jump up and down and stamp your feet? Do you sit quietly fuming, considering your next step in the "ultimate revenge"? For many, anger is a most difficult topic to discuss.

Many of us do not learn "how to" express anger in a healthy way. Many people even use anger to hide other feelings that are equally difficult to express, like hurt and fear. Anger doesn't have to be a bad thing. It can be useful to you. Anger produces energy, it can motivate communication, and best of all, it can help wear off calories.

Have you ever noticed how silly people look when they stamp their feet or "beg for a fight," or yell and swear at other people? It can be quite funny. Have you ever noticed how your own behavior appears to others? ...I can go on and ask many more questions, but my main point is, I think we can all recognize our angry feelings. The concern then becomes, "How can I deal with my anger, and can I afford or not afford to make these changes in my life?"

Here are some ideas if your feelings of anger are related to other people: 1. Identify the real problem; 2. Focus on the problem, not the person; 3. Listen openly and make certain of what you think you heard was what the other person intended; 4. Notice signs of anger increasing. You can put a lid on it. 5. Be respectful of another person's feelings. 6. Calm down — take time out — relax your breathing — note the stress on your body — relax! — take a walk — have a bath — play a musical instrument — do some house cleaning — shovel snow? — or anything else different than what you have been doing. 7. Talk to yourself and/or others to figure out what you really are angry about. 8. Take responsibility for your own behavior. And 9. Work on solutions.

It is possible to change your "angry" behavior. It is not easy. It takes a lot of work and determination. Remember that it has taken you a lifetime to learn to act the way you do, and it will take time to change it. Remember also that you are responsible for your "angry" behavior. The way you act is based on choices. If you decide to make some changes, take one step at a time, and remember to celebrate your successes!

About the weather — being angry at it is silly. What we receive is what we receive, and Frosty the Snowman is cute, isn't he?

Talent explosion coming Feb. 14

By Dee Pankiw
Review Contributor

A talent explosion is going to happen in Elk Point. Valentine's Day at 2:00 p.m., the Elks Hall will be the site of the first preliminary for Edmonton Northlands' Klondike Days search for talent. Formerly called Youth Talent Quest, this event provides performers between the ages of 13 and 21 the opportunity to compete for a number of great prizes.

The winner from Elk Point's show will go on to compete in Edmonton. The winning musical entry at Elk Point will win the recording of a single at Carrera Studios in St. Paul, Alberta. Besides the singers, bands and musicians who would qualify for this prize, the contest is also open to solo and group dancing and other performing arts.

These young people never fail to provide an entertaining show. This contest usually

another way video lottery terminal revenues are working for you

Video lottery terminal dollars are already working in your community

In 1996-97, video lottery terminal and other lottery and gaming revenues returned $669 million to Albertans. Here's how:

On government program spending . . . . . $456 million

This money was spent on government programs and services, including Albertans' priority areas like health, education, social services and infrastructure.

On community grant programs . . . . . $107 million

This money went to grants to community organizations in areas such as arts, culture, recreation, volunteerism and local facility enhancement.

On charitable organizations . . . . . $106 million

This money went to charities through bingos, casinos, and other charitable gaming activities.

Total $669 million

Community lottery boards will provide $50 million to support community priorities

Beginning April 1, $50 million from 1998-99 lottery revenues will be available for volunteer and not-for-profit groups through the Community Lottery Board Grant Program. It's up to communities to decide how to spend it.

The Community Lottery Board Grant Program:

- puts video lottery terminal revenues to work in your community;
- puts granting decisions into the hands of communities, not governments; and
- puts every program dollar into grants, not administration.

Right now, municipalities are looking for volunteers to serve on community lottery boards. If you're interested, why not find out more by contacting your local municipality?

Nutrition notes

Eating when eating isn't fun anymore

By Shelley Miller-Hertes, RD
Elk Point Health Centre

Anyone who has had to care for someone with cancer knows that eating can become a significant difficulty. While there are no amazing food cures, here are a few suggestions you may find helpful.

Weight loss is common and occur for a number of reasons: decreased food intake, impaired nutrient absorption, increased nutrient losses, or increased nutrient requirements. Weight loss is considered significant if it is greater than 5% of body weight in one month or greater than 10% in six months. For example, for a 130 pound person, a weight loss of 7 pounds in one month or 14 pounds in 6 months is considered significant.

Increasing protein and calorie intake is usually tried first. Commercial nutritional supplements (eg. Ensure, Boost) can be useful for increasing energy and/or protein intake. If the person is classified as palliative care, the pleasurable aspects of eating become more important than the quantity or nutrient content.

To address a few common eating problems:

1. Anorexia — try 5 or 6 small meals and snacks a day. Eat energy-dense foods during the time of day when appetite is the best (eg. breakfast). Soft, moist foods are usually well tolerated. If meal preparation is difficult, consider frozen meals, take-out foods or meals on wheels.

2. Early Satiety — drink high energy drinks (eg. Ensure or milkshakes) between meals. Avoid high fiber foods as they fill you up quickly without a lot of calories.

3. Nausea — use anti-nausea medications as prescribed. Drink adequate fluids. Eat small, frequent meals. Cold foods are sometimes tolerated better than hot foods. Avoid the use of alcohol. Try to remain upright for a while after eating.

4. Vomiting — encourage adequate fluid intake to prevent dehydration. Start with only small amounts to eat then gradually increase the amount.

Remember, you eat to improve strength, well-being and/or quality of life. It's still important to eat even when it's not that much fun anymore.

My trip Down Under

By Peter Andrishak
Review Contributor

Having just recently returned from a month long trip to Australia, New Zealand, Fiji and Tahiti, I thought some people might be interested in my impressions of it.

After a long and tiresome 14-hour, nonstop flight from Los Angeles, we finally landed in Sydney, Australia. Sydney, Australia's largest city is a big bustling city of four million people. It has five times the population of Edmonton.

The first thing you notice is that everyone drives on the left-hand side of the road. It is summertime there now, when I was there the temperature was a pleasant 70° to 85°F, but I heard on the radio it had since gone up to 43° C. or about 110°F.

Being in a semi-tropical area, palm trees and many beautiful exotic flowers grow there that you do not see in Canada.

Sydney is one of the more expensive cities of the world to live in. Gas is 75 cents a litre. Most apartments rent from $200 to $600 a week. My hotel room was paid for by my tour company. I asked the hotel clerk it would have cost me if I had paid for it myself, he told me $186 a day.

Many people do not realize what a big country Australia is, it is the equivalent distance of between Calgary and Halifax. The population of Australia is about 18 million people but most live in a narrow band along the coast.

The interior, called the Outback, is very hot and very dry. The temperature goes up to 120°F.

New Zealand has a population of 3.6 million people, 50 million sheep and 7 million cattle. It is a very mountainous country with lush green meadows where it is not uncommon to see 200 sheep pasture on 50 acres.

The four main industries of New Zealand are: (1) wool and sheep. (2) Tourism — Millions of people from all over the world come there for their holidays. (3) Forestry — Because of their temperate climate, trees mature in 25 years instead of the 50 to 75 years it takes for trees to reach maturity in Canada.

Because of the depressed wool prices, a lot of land is being planted to trees. People in New Zealand told me that in a few years they will be the world's largest exporter of wood products. (4) Mining — New Zealand has huge deposits of coal and exports most of it to Japan.

In New Zealand, the GST is 12 1/2% and is paid on everything, including food. The price of gas is 90 cents a litre.

I think one of the most frustrating things I find when travelling abroad is the almost complete lack of news about Canada in the newspapers and TV, such as "Is the postal strike over yet? Who won the Grey Cup?" etc.

Since coming home I don't know what to think. When you consider that most people in Australia and New Zealand have little or no winter to contend with, that most people drive nice new cars, that their standard of living seems to be at least as good as it is in Canada. Is Canada really the best country in the world to live in?

Fiji is nice, the people are very friendly but there seems to be a lot of poor people there. Most live in small houses without electricity or running water. My bus driver told me in the village he lives in, some children walk 12 miles a day to get to school. The children in the southern hemisphere are on their two month summer holiday now.

Tahiti is the most beautiful place you can imagine. The only thing I didn't like was the heat and humidity. It seems funny to hear Christmas carols on the radio when the temperature is 105°F.

The natives of Tahiti live an almost idyllic life. When they get hungry, they catch a few fish, they have a garden and raise all sorts of fruit such as bananas, pineapple, mangoes, watermelons and oranges. Then they go for a swim in the warm waters of their ocean.

SYDNEY SKYLINE -- Australia's biggest city is home to four million people.

The Council made ten recommendations in 1996.

The report card above shows the Council's assessment of government's progress towards these long term goals.

Goals for a Reformed Health System

The Alberta Government has stated that it wants to shift the health system to one that includes not only first-class treatment services, but also focuses more on keeping us healthy.

Government's goals are to <sup>1</sup> improve health services, <sup>2</sup> improve the health of Albertans, and <sup>3</sup> reduce costs.

The Council has evaluated health system performance based on these three goals.

Who are We?

We are 16 citizens who live on farms, in towns, and in cities. Our members have been active in their communities and bring a wealth of experience from business, education, health, religion, agriculture, local governments, and the volunteer sector.

Each of us responded to a public nomination process and were appointed by the Minister of Health. An Expert Panel of fifteen Albertans, with professional backgrounds in health services, provides advice and assistance to us.

During 1997, we:

- heard from Albertans who contacted us by phone, fax, mail and e-mail,
- held 14 meetings across the province with the inner-city poor and homeless, institutional care clients, Aboriginal groups, mental health clients, the chronically ill, and people of various ages,
- met with citizens at public meetings in many locations throughout the province,
- heard from over 1,200 Albertans through a telephone survey,
- gathered information from MLAs, key community groups, health workers, professional organizations, and current and former board members of Health Authorities.

- There is presently a lack of clear direction from government about mental health services. Reform in this area is seen as lagging behind other areas. Both the move to more community-based services and the ease of movement between community and hospital services are of concern.

- Although we have seen improved coordination and communication within Health Authorities, some Albertans report difficulty moving between hospital, long term care and community care in and between health regions.

- 86% of Albertans feel the health services they receive are good or excellent.

- About 47% of Albertans, however, feel the health system is doing a worse job now than a year ago in building confidence that publicly-funded health services will be there when they are needed.

- Health workers are concerned that the system does not have the same ability as it once did to sustain high quality and access to services.

GOAL 1 Improved Health Services

- Concern for the future
- Mental health reform lagging
- Some systems are developing within the health sector to assist providers to work together. For example, an information link is being developed between physicians and pharmacists.

GOAL 2 Improved Health of Albertans

- New model needed
- What do Albertans need to be healthier?

- While 89% of Albertans rate their own health as good or excellent, 28% smoke, 40% don't get enough physical activity, and Alberta has high rates of suicide, addictions, and deaths due to injuries.
- The health system's front line of contact with Albertans isn't presently designed, operated or funded in ways that help Albertans stay healthy.

- Government has failed to create a better understanding of the vision and goals of health reform.
- Government is not providing sufficient leadership to bring together all the elements - within and beyond the health system - that contribute to health.

- Albertans (both individuals and communities) need more knowledge, incentives, and capabilities to improve their own health. Health workers report that sufficient supports and structures are not in place for them to provide these services.
- Health Authorities are trying to better relate the services they provide to the health needs of their communities.

- Work is beginning on some system-wide partnerships between health and other sectors such as those to reduce injuries and promote healthy lifestyles.

- At the September 1997 Alberta Growth Summit, community, business and government leaders recognized the impact and the relationship between health and other sectors that contribute to a high quality of life.

- While there are issues related to Aboriginal health, their traditional philosophy of health, which balances physical, spiritual, social, and emotional well-being, can be an important resource for understanding a system that focuses on keeping people healthy.

- Some people are now paying more for their own equipment, supplies, drug costs and personal care after release from hospital.
- Between 1992 and 1997, Albertans increased their private per person spending on health insurance and payment of uninsured dental and vision care, prescriptions and over-the-counter products by 11% (in 1992 dollars).
- Government's goal of reducing government expenditure on health appears to have been achieved, since government health spending per person dropped by 21% from 1992-1997 (in 1992 dollars). The need to reduce costs also resulted in a restructured health system and development of a new funding formula.

- There is concern whether the system can sustain the current level and quality of services as the full effect of the funding reduction continues to unfold in the face of an aging population and the need to replace/redesign older health service facilities.

GOAL 3 Reduced Costs

- Reduced government spending

- New funding mechanisms and incentives are being explored in Primary Health Care pilot projects to bring a wider range of services to citizens by various service providers.

The Provincial Health Council's 1997 Recommendations

We expected that the health system would take several years to accomplish some of our 1996 recommendations. We found that progress has been made - though not quite as much as we had hoped for. Therefore, the Provincial Health Council recommends:

1996 Follow-up

- The Minister of Health continue efforts towards implementation of the Council's 1996 recommendations.

The Council believes two kinds of changes need to be made. Day-to-day operations at the regional level need to be improved, and there needs to be a more fundamental shift to a system that focuses on keeping us healthy as well as treating our illnesses.

Day-to-Day Operations

- The Minister assist the Health Authorities in improving communication, coordination and integration across Health Authority boundaries to remove gaps in service.
- The Minister assist the Health Authorities in resolving difficulties that patients encounter in moving between hospital, long term care, and community care.

- The Minister instruct Alberta Health to develop a standard process and instrument to compile and assess service provider issues aimed at improving health services to Albertans. Data derived should be correlated with consumer data compiled by Alberta Health. The results can then be used to assess health system effectiveness.

Shift The System To One That Focuses More On Keeping Us Healthy

- The government take the lead in setting the direction and resolving the concerns of Albertans as to the future mental health system in Alberta. Government, citizens and providers need to agree on the appropriate direction and then move aggressively to reform the mental health system.

- The Government of Alberta support the development of a new health service delivery model that anticipates health problems and works to prevent as well as treat them.

A. Government work with Health Authorities, business, community groups, and professional associations to create organizational structures and incentives for health service providers and community workers to partner in providing primary health services to Albertans.

B. Government and health organizations support providers in helping citizens develop the additional skills they need to stay healthy.

C. The Minister of Health work with other Ministers, Health Authorities, health service providers and citizens to create a 10-year plan to achieve this new model.

D. The Minister of Health encourage the development of mechanisms for people to be recognized for inventive approaches to health reform.

Albertans need to help. More Albertans must participate and take greater personal responsibility for making healthy choices for themselves and for their communities.

- The Government of Alberta continue to work with other sectors to address the factors that contribute to good health and high quality of life.

The Minister of Health, Legislative Assembly, and Health Authorities have been presented with a copy of our recommendations. They must decide what action to take. The Council will track and report to Albertans on progress on these recommendations next year.

Health Region gears up for non-smoking week

SMOKY LAKE - Everyone knows the hazards associated with smoking. At least we're supposed to know the dangers connected with tobacco. But the question remains: Is everything that could be done actually being done to prevent smoking?

Just in case it isn't, Lakeland Regional Health Authority (LRHA) is getting set to mark Non-Smoking Week across the Region from January 18 to 24. Wednesday, January 21 is Weedless Wednesday.

LRHA is working very closely with Alberta Health and other organizations such as Health Canada, Action on Smoking and Health (ASH), the Alberta Lung Association, the Alberta Asthma Centre and the Alberta Public Health Association to make sure residents in the Region know about this important week.

The dangers that smoke creates hit children the hardest. For instance, children who live around second-hand smoke have more coughs, colds, ear infections, lung infections, bronchitis, pneumonia, asthma and allergies. As well, smoke is more harmful to children than adults because children breathe at a faster rate than adults do. And for these little ones, being exposed to second-hand smoke all day can be compared to smoking two or three cigarettes.

LRHA is asking people in the Region to Clear the Air and make their residences Smoke-Free Homes. A smoke-free home is a residence where no smoking is allowed inside anytime by anyone. This means there is no smoking in the basement, in another room or standing by an open window. A smoke-free home is one where people are asked not to smoke while visiting.

Why target smoking in the home? There are two very simple reasons. The first is that tobacco smoke is a major source of indoor pollution. And secondly, careless smoking in the home is the single greatest contributor to fire deaths.

Not only will people living in Lakeland Health Region breathe better and feel healthier by marking Non-Smoking Week, they can also register their homes as smoke-free between now and May 1 and qualify to win some terrific prizes by calling toll free 1-800-905-5210. Or they can look for contest ballot boxes across the Lakeland Health Region, including all LRHA facilities.

FOOD PROCESSOR

AND IT DOES BEDS TOO!

Feeding and bedding cattle can be a big, time consuming job. Highline's re-designed Bale Pro 6800 or the new Bale Pro 7800 cuts chores down to size and slices feed costs. Dust, mold, and mildew are blown away increasing the palatability of hay which results in feed savings of 15-30%. Bedding costs are also reduced as the Bale Pro blows straw up to 50 feet, which leaves a uniform fluffy bed, versus an irregular packed bed from an unrolled bale.

Whether you choose Bale Pro 6800 or want the extra capacity of the Bale Pro 7800, Highline has the value packed machine to slice time off your chores. And downtime worries are eliminated as Highline stands behind every piece of their equipment with the best warranty in the business.

Access the Potential of Engineering Technology

Access Technologies

Engineering Technology will bring Alberta and the world into the next century. Opportunities in this booming field are limitless, and now there's an innovative new program that puts the power of this knowledge at your fingertips - no matter where you are. It's Access Technologies.

- Delivered through the Southern Alberta Institute of Technology (SAIT), a leading provider of engineering technology programs in Canada.
- Access Technologies enables students anywhere in the province to study the equivalency of one year of courses towards one of more than a dozen engineering technology diplomas.
- Curriculum is delivered through the Internet, teleconferencing or traditional print material at your home, workplace or community site, in conjunction with several host colleges in Alberta.
- Program starts March 1...or whenever you're ready.

Access Technologies breaks the barriers between you and a challenging career in engineering technology.

Minor Hockey news

By Doug Bassett
Elk Point Minor Hockey

Picture this: Friday night in Kitscoty, the Bantam Lightning against the Bulldogs, one of the top ranked teams in the North East League. The Lightning, undefeated in their last four games, began to pour it on when team captain Brett Kopeck gave them the lead early in the game. Shortly after, scoring for the Lightning was Kent Bjornstad, who has ten points in the last four games after returning from his broken collarbone. Simply the best game of the season for Jon Yake, who scored two goals and played very physical in the corners. Never looking back, Luke Hanna added two more for the Lightning, who went on to win 6 to 2 over the 'Dogs.

A real test of character, for the girls Midget Storm, who played the toughest part of this year's schedule this weekend, playing a home and home series against last year's provincial champions from Irma.

Meanwhile, the Peewee girl Cyclones headed north to Athabasca on Saturday. Down by three goals going into the third period, Tellia Loughran scored on a breakaway, followed shortly after by her sister Kyrie. Then Kristyn Ballas, scored on a breakaway to tie the game at three. Even though the Cyclones lost late in the game, they played well for a first year team and had great goaltending by Kristin Campbell.

The Novice Hurricanes were in a tournament in Two Hills this past weekend. Levi Stewart was strong in front of the net. Craig Dallaire returned to hockey in early January and scored his first game of the season. Tyler Loughran, who normally plays defence, was a standout playing in net, facing 36 shots in the second game.

Lightning strikes down the Bulldogs

The Peewee Blades travelled to Irma Friday night, losing a close game 5 to 4. A good game for rugged cornerman Kyle Nielsen. On Saturday the Blades were in Dewberry and sliced up the Colts 6 to 4, winning for the first time this season over Buddy Bensmiller. Sharing the duties equally, goaltenders Chance Dumont and Brandon Parenteau were outstanding. When the Blades had to kill a six minute penalty in the middle of the game, defencemen George Danyluk and Brian Poitras answered the call, doing a great job and logging lots of ice time.

Talk about a great job. The Atom Avalanche did just that, when they hosted a seven team tournament that saw Glendon defeat Cold Lake 7 to 6 in the "A" Final. Coming out on top in the "B" Final was the Avalanche, winning 8 to 4 over Two Hills, the first time the Avalanche has won over the Eagles this season. Jason Kalynchuk had four goals in the final game, Devon Moneta had two goals and Jordan Cousins had a single. The

Atom Thunder also in the tournament, played well but with a shortage of players, it caught up to them when it came down to the wire. (Cont. on Page 12)

When you see flashing amber lights beside red lights, slow down... a snow plow is ahead.

For your safety and the safety of others:

- Always have headlights on when travelling.
- Oncoming vehicles should slow down and keep right.
- When approaching from behind be cautious - plows cause snow clouds which reduce visibility.
- Slow down... snow plows move at much slower speeds than other vehicles.
- Remain well back until the snow plow operator can safely pull over to allow you to pass.

Frog Lake will host Comedy Kings

Frog Lake School is hosting the Harlem Comedy Kings basketball team on Wednesday, January 21. The players will be speaking to the students at 2:00 p.m. that day, and at 7 p.m. that evening, they will take on the Frog Lake Knights, a team made up of senior students and teachers. Call Jenna at 943-3737 for more information.

attracts performers from Elk Point and several surrounding communities. All of the local schools have information. You can get an entry form or more information by calling 724-2250.

This event is hosted by the French Exchange Club, a group of grade 9 and 10 students at F. G. Miller High School, who are raising money to travel to the province of Quebec. Students from a school near Quebec City will be arriving here early in March. We will be hosting a number of activities during their stay. Then at the end of April, a group of students from our school will be travelling to Quebec to participate in a number of activities there. They will stay in the homes of their hosts and visit several historical and cultural sites. This will be a wonderful educational experience for both groups of students.

The French Club has been diligently raising funds for over a year. Last year you could often see them out after one of the many snow storms, shovelling walks and drive-ways. They sold spices, cleaned the arena during two provincial tournaments and the grounds after Canada Day. Many of these students could quite easily go into the restaurant business in the future. They ran the Wapiti concession last spring, and did the concession for a softball tournament. For the Ladies' Night Out in November, the French Club provided the food, in exchange for a share of the profits. Now they are selling pizza by the slice until the school cafeteria becomes operational. They have also wrapped gifts, babysat for special events, and collected bottles. They have sold candy grams, pictures with Santa, and lollypops in the school.

On February 14, the French Club is hosting the Talent Explosion in the afternoon from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. In the evening, the parents are hosting the Valentine's Ball at the Elks Hall, with "Route 66" playing for a romantic evening. Tickets for this dance are available from Daphne at 724-4206.

Garbage bylaw gets further fine tuning

Associates was ratified by Council. The work is already completed, and the $52,796 cost will be paid from Infrastructure and Water and Sewer reserves.

A new sewer cleaning machine has been ordered and will be funded out of the Equipment Reserves.

Engineering costs for planned water line replacements on 49th Street and 55th Avenue will be paid from Water Line Replacement reserves and for an extension of water and sewer service on 49th Street from 57th to 59th Avenues will be paid from Water Line reserves. The first project is a matter of urgency, due to problems with the water line in that area, while the latter project would accommodate future new development in that area. Application had been made for a grant to finance these projects but did not receive approval.

What's news at the library?

Help the Friends of the Library plan their future

By Michele Ducek
Librarian

The Friends of the Library are holding a meeting on Wednesday, January 21 at 7 p.m. in the library. The Friends have had their last bingo for this year and are looking to plan the future of the group. If you are interested in the library, please come out and let your voice be heard.

Last week we had the senior division nominees for the 1998 Young Readers Choice Award. This week we have the nominees in the junior division:

When Poppy, a deer mouse, and her friend incur the wrath of the powerful owl who rules the woods, he refuses to allow her family to move to a new home. Poppy is determined to find out the real reason for his refusal in Poppy by Avi.

Family life for an African-American family in Michigan is depicted in The Watsons go to Birmingham — 1963 by Christopher Paul Curtis.

A young girl discovers that the pioneer settlement she is living in is really a tourist attraction and the year is 1996. Now she must escape to the modern world to save the children of the settlement who are dying of diphtheria in Running Out of Time by Margaret Peterson Haddix.

A visit to a fortune teller leaves Ellen rushing to save her brother from an unknown peril in Danger at the Fair by Peg Kehret.

A young girl, who lost a foot in an accident, saves and injured pilot whale and its newborn calf and comes to accept the changes the injury has made in her life in Stranded by Ben Mikaelson.

Phoebe Harte's world is turned upside down when her younger brother is killed in an accident in Mick Harte Was Here by Barbara Park. A moving portrait of how a tragic loss affects a whole family.

A young girl and her siblings are kidnapped and taken to another world where they must perform death-defying feats for their alien captors in Galax-Arena by Gillian Rubenstein.

The kids return to thirty storey Wayside School to endure a number of substitute teachers and some truly weird stuff in Wayside School Gets a Little Stranger by Louis Sachar.

A young boy travels to Kenya to find his biologist father and encounters elephant poachers and a mystical Masai warrior in Thunder Cave by Roland Smith.

Some of the Kinder Planets by Tim Wynne-Jones is a collection of stories, each one about a person who feels a little bit alien.

Teddy gives his perfect brother a baby alligator for his birthday and the fun begins in Later, Gator by Laurence Yep.
